1- Project description

BESTMEDGRAPE responds to the Overarching Objective ENI CBC Med programme of fostering sustainable economic, social and territorial development. It takes stock from over 10-year R&D of the partners in the fields of grape valorisation, waste exploitation and development of nanotechnological antioxidant/anti-inflammatory/anti-neurodegenerative formulations, areas where international patents have been obtained. The partnership expects to produce a substantial change in areas where winemaking could not profit from recent technological applications due to generalized economic slowdown and conflicts affecting the Med area.

BESTMEDGRAPE aims at supporting the creation of new start-ups/SMEs by transferring scientific/technological knowledge on local grape cultivars and exploitation of wine by-products as a source of bioactive compounds that are transformed in innovative commercial health products, when appropriately incorporated in ad hoc nanocarriers.

Start date: 1st of September 2019

Duration: three years

Total project Budget: 3.323.614,57 €
